COLLEGE ELEVENS IN EXCITING BATTLES ON THE GRIDIRO

COLUMBIA DOWNED BY AMHERST, 9 TO 7

Safety in Final Period Defeats the Blue and White Eleven.

LOSERS ARE OUTPLAYED

Poor Punting and Fumbling Aid Lighter Purple and White Team.

A speedy and light band of warriors oasting Amherst as their Alma Mater, took the measure of a team vastly supe rior in weight on South Field yesterday Columbia was forced to bow to the Purple and White, The margin of victory was small, a scant two points sepa rating the rival elevens when the ref-aree's whistle called an end to the con-test, but this scarcely gives a fair idea of the relative merit of the two teams. Columbia was outplayed in almost every department of the game, and except for one triumphal march that carried the ball the entire length of the gridiron, was seldom dangerous. The final score was 9 to 7.

ball the entire length of the gridiron, was seldom dangerous. The final score was 9 to 7.

The big Columbia line, heaviest that has represented the Morningside Heights institution in years, was no match for the light but keenly alert forward wall from Massachusetts. Time and again the powerful Blue and White offence was thrown in full blast against its supposedly weaker opponents, but it was not until the second half, when Columbia reappeared on the field with something akin to reat fighting spirit, that O'Nelli's machine was able to regiser a single first down. Only in the third period, when for an all too brief moment Columbia showed a flash of real football, were as many as two first downs made, and in the last period only once could she advance ten yards on four consecutive plays.

But it was not the line alone that brought about the downfall of the Blue and White. Eight times did Thornton or De Stephano punt and the average distance gained by this method was not more than twenty-six yards. In fumbling too Columbia had the edge on Amherst, committing five errors of omission during the first half, as compared to one for the Purple and White. Fortunately Columbia's secondary defence played well, else the score might have been still higher.

It was Frank Wing, star left half of the Massachusetts eleven, who mainly instrumental in gaining a sy for his team. Time and again to broke loose for substantial gains, negotiating an entire first down a handed and at least half of Amsingle handed and at least half of Amhorst's plays centred around him. It was he who threw the forward pass to Capt. Davidson in the opening period that resulted in the first score of the afternoon, and it was his name that was continually on the lips of every Amhorst rooter in the stands.

The victors lost no time getting down to the business of making themselves victors, and scarcely five minutes had elapsed before an Amherst score was hung up at one end of the field. Columhia won the toss and Calloway kicked off, Elliott returning the compliment al-

Blocked Punt Costly.

Blocked Punt Costly.

The last score came toward the close of the fourth quarter. A series of passes and long line bucks brought the visitors within the shadow of Columbia's posts. But here Columbia called on all her strength and withstod the assault, taking the ball on downs. De Stephano punted out of danger, but the play was called back as a whistle had blown. Again he stepped back to punt, but this time Adams, left tackle for Amherst, broke through and blocked the kick, a Columbia man falling on the ball back of his own goal posts for a safety. plunges netted only four yards. Then Gagnon, in excellent position, missed a dron kick from fifteen yards.

Harvard then took the offensive and ploughed its way to the Holy Cross 35 yard line, an advance of forty-five yards. An offside play checked the assault, but a forward pass, Buell to Owen, gave Harvard first down on the 22 yard line Here Holy Cross smeared two plays and Buell dropped back to the 35 yard mark and scored. The ball sailed low but true.

Shortly before the period ended Ryan ran the kickoff back twenty yards to the 30 yard line and Gagnon ripped through a broken field to Harvard's 46 yard line. Simendinger and Ryan made it first down on the 33 yard mark in two plays, after which the teams swanped goals. down on the 33 yard mark in two plays, after which the teams swapped goals.
Gagnon broke loose around left end for thirteen yards, but Simendinger lost five on the next rush, being smeared by Macomber, who had replaced Captain Kane of Harvard. After a five yard gain by Ryan, Gagnon tried a drop kick from the 39 yard mark, but the ball went wide.
Harvard was penalized fifteen yards after this kick, being forced to put the ball in play from its 5 yard mark. Fitts came through with a lofty sixty yard boot, but Simendinger eluded several Harvard tacklers. He finally was brought down by Fitts, the left footed punter being injured and withdrawn after making a tackle on Harvard's 37 yard mark.

Gagaon Falls Again.

Gagnon was thrown for a 25 yard loss on the next play, and his desperate attempt to drop kick a goal from near midfield fell far short of the mark. A 20 yard run by Churchill, and then the game ended after two exchanges of kicks.

The expected kicking duel developed in the first two periods, with neither team gaining any great advantage. Johnson, who started at quarter for Harvard, showed adeptness at running back punts, chiefly because Simendinger's lifts lacked the height that Fitts was able to get.

SIX TOUCHDOWNS FOR CORNELL TEAM

Ithacans Start Impressively Against St. Bonaventure, Score Ending 41 to 0.

Special Despatch to THE NEW YORK HERALD.
ITHACA, N. Y., Oct. I.—Cornell opened her football season this afternoon with a victory over St. Bonaventure, rolling up six touchdowns for a 41 to 9 score. a victory over St. Bonaventure, rolling up six touchdowns for a 41 to 0 score. The Ithacans feit the visitors out in the first period, which ended without score, and were called on to stop them on the Red 5-yard line. In the second period the Cornell backs got going and, with the line playing a headler game, scored two touchdowns, long runs by Ramsey and Pfann figuring prominently. Pfann fumbled once while going across the line, but Munns covered the ball and scored the touchdown.

In the third period the Ithacans scored three, Kaw, Lechler, Ramsey and Wahl, who was substituted for Pfann and who diayed conspicuously, doing most of the gaining. Wahl once carried a 20 yard pass across for a touchdown. Lechler's line plunging was a material factor and he gave evidence of much promise. The second team played the last period and made a final touchdown.

The Cornell line seemed powerful, but was slow and green. The backs made a good impression. Overanxiety cost the Ithacans dearly, as they lost about 100 yards in penalties. The visitors made eight first downs, all but one on forward passes, which had the Ithacans guessing a bit.

YALE WAKES UP AND BEATS VERMONT 14-0

With a Scoreless First Half the Elis Rip Up Visitors' Forwards in Second.

Special Despatch to THE NEW YORK HERALD. NEW HAVEN, Conn., Oct. 1.—Finding themselves in the second half after being played to a standstill during the first two periods, the Yale football players played to a standstill during the first two periods, the Yale football players downed Vermont in the final quarter to-day and won, 14 to 0. The Vermonters came here with a well coached eleven in the care of Tom Keady and pulled themselves out of some deep holes in the first and second periods.

Four times Yale had the ball inside of the 15 yard line, but the Eli punch was lacking, and each time Vermont got out of trouble. Brock was compelled to kick from behind his own goal line three times. Two kicks by Capt. Aldrich proved lucky ones for Yale in the early part of the game. Gooch, the quarterback, allowed one to roll out of bounds half a foot from the corner, and the other, a drop kick, went out two yards from the corner of the field.

Aldrich tried three goals from the field and missed each time, and Oed, the substitute quarterback, falled on the two. The Yale backfield did fine work in the second half; that is, two-thlirds of the backfield did. Mallory, the right halfback, played through three and a half periods and was not given the ball ence. Jordan and Aldrich did practically all the running with the ball, Oed occasionally varying the play with a quarterback run or by giving the ball to an Eli end. Yale's experimental team held the Vermonters to a single first down.

The line ripped up the Vermont for-quarterback run or by giving the ball to an Ell end. Yale's experimental team held the Vermonters to a single first down.

The line ripped up the Vermont forwards in the second half and made it easy for Aldrich and Jordan to plough their way down field. It was a case of the Vermont team playing itself out in the first half, with no reserve to fall back on. Yale tried eight forward passes and only two were successful for a gain of 19 yards. Vermont tried four and were successful twice, Yale stuck mostly to a line bucking game and something resembling the old Yale puch was uncovered in the third quarter. With a scoreless first half behind them, Yale wasn't long in getting started when the teams took the field again. An exchange of punts found the ball in Aldrich's arms on his 38 yard line. An off side play set Vermont back five yards and then a march down the field began which resulted in a touchdown by Aldrich. Jordan and Aldrich, on plunges between Margolski and Nolan and inside of Semansky, clipped off yard after yard. Oed found the left side of Vermont line weak and played his backs against it on almost every down. Steady hammering at this side was good business and nothing could stop the Vale backs. Aldrich's touch down was made in a dash between left end and tackle.

Getting the kick off, Oed ran the ball to Yale's 40 yard line, Aldrich and Jordan advancing it to the 36 yard line, when the third quarter ended.

The first play in the fourth period was an eight yard run by Aldrich. Jordan and Aldrich made it first down on the 25 yard line. Jordan got 19 and soon afterward jammed his way through for another first down on the 2 yard line and Aldrich made it first down on the 25 yard line. Jordan got 19 and soon afterward jammed his way through for another first down on the 2 yard line The Vermont line tightened and held for two downs, but on the third Oed worked his way over for a score.

Yale sent in several substitutes after the second score was made and they all did good work. Over 12,000 saw the game. The l

Rudd Has Only Praise for Our College Athletics

Special Cable to The New York Henald Copyright, 1992, by THE New York Hurald

Special Cable to The New York Health.
Copyright, 1921; by Tim New York Health.

New Yark Herald Bureau.
London, Sept. 39.

D. RUDD, quarter mile runner and captain of the Oxford-Cambridge track team which competed with teams in the United States, arrived home with the warmest praise for American athletics and particularly for the high standard of the sporting spirit in American universities.

"I was very much impressed," he said, "by the keen sportsmanship of American undergraduates and its is absurd to say as certain English papers are reputed to intimate, that they are semi-professionals. The great advantage that America has over England is that in America there are at least thirty universities in a better state of athletic control than either Oxford or Cambridge. The standard of athletics there is so high that although the British team won the relay race, I am afraid it won't happen again."

Rudd says that it has been definitely established to have an annual exchange of visits between British and American university teams. Princeton and Cornell are coming next year and Yale and Harvard in 1923.

ton gridiron warriors in their opening all the strength expected but at the same time was lacking in smoothness of play. Don Lourie, all American quarterback of last fall, was in his old time form and skipped through the opposition for two runs of sixty and thirty-five yards respectively for touchdowns. The other Princeton score came in the third quarter on a fifty-seven yard run by Newby, a substitute back, who was aided by fine interference. Keck's educated toe put over all three goals.

Swarthmore's lone touchdown came as the result of a brilliant run by Capt. Geiger, quarterback, in the final period. At this time, however, Keck was the only Princeton regular still in the game, so that the original Tiger combination's record remained unimpaired.
